

Dr Sue Black
University of Westminster

www.sueblack.co.uk

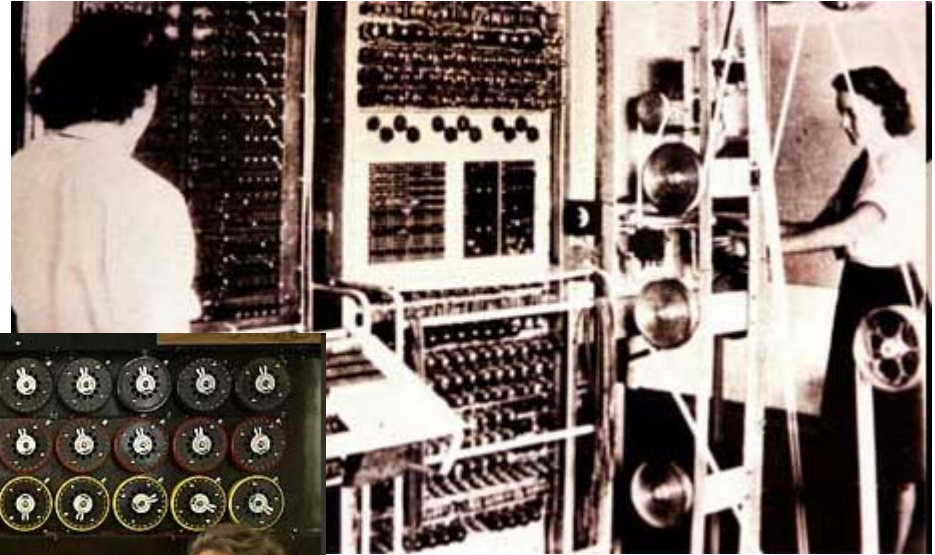

@Dr_Black

Bletchley Park Mansion

The Women of Station X

The Enigma machine

The Huts

The BBC

Neglect of Bletchley condemned

Professor Fran Allen and Mavis Batey

Exciting News from English Heritage

BBC Low graphics Help Search

NEWS LIVE BBC NEWS CHANNEL

Page last updated at 09:08 GMT, Thursday, 6 November 2008

E-mail this to a friend Printable version

New lifeline for Bletchley Park

BLETCHLEY PARK TRUST

The maze of roof sections and repairs is putting Bletchley's interiors in danger of damage

Britain's code-cracking and computing heritage has won a lifeline in the form of a donation from English Heritage.

News Front Page

- World
- UK
- England
- Northern Ireland
- Scotland
- Wales
- Business
- Politics
- Health
- Education
- Science & Environment
- Technology
- Entertainment
- Also in the news

Video and Audio

- Have Your Say
- Magazine
- In Pictures
- Country Profiles

Fascinating talk by Captain Jerry Roberts

Adolf Hitler, Fuhrer

Social Media @BletchleyPark

😊 Stephen Fry joins the campaign

😊

Bletchley Park wins 'Building with Pride'

Pixelh8 and Imogen Heap

EDM 1935

Early Day Motion

EDM 1935

FUNDING FOR BLETCHLEY PARK

20.07.2009

Willis, Phil

That this House recognises the significance of Bletchley Park, historic site of secret British code-breaking activities during the Second World War and birthplace of the modern computer; acknowledges that the use of the intelligence gained at Bletchley Park and subsequent related actions of the Allies is said to have shortened the Second World War by two years, saving countless lives; and calls on the Government to provide operational funding whilst the museum is developed for long-term sustainability, securing the site for future generations to visit, appreciate and understand.

Closed with 82 signatures

Annual Reunion 2009

www.bletchleyparkreunion.info

guardian.co.uk

Bletchley Park's codebreakers get glimpse of lottery funding

The wartime site near Milton Keynes will receive £500,000 to help seek a £4.1m grant - but campaigners say more is needed

Charles Arthur and agencies guardian.co.uk, Tuesday 29 September 2009 12.28 BST

Supporters of Bletchley Park, home to crucial code-breaking work during the Second World War and birthplace of the computer, expressed delight today after outline proposals to overhaul the site were given approval by the Heritage Lottery Fund.

Bletchley Park Trust has been awarded development funding to help prepare an application for a £4.1 million grant towards a £10 million restoration project including repairing key buildings, improving visitor facilities and expanding educational programmes.

However Sue Black, a campaigner who has sought to gain heritage status – and funding – for the site, said that the award was "the end of the beginning for Save Bletchley Park, not the beginning of the end". On the social networking site Twitter, she pointed out that the site "needs £10 million plus £250k per annum operational funding for five years. HLF [Heritage Lottery Fund] funding gives £500k plus hopefully £4m to come..."

Got 100ner y!

Save Bletchley Park?

Home About us Your account Help

Sue's page

One of the huts at Bletchley Park

Photos \(3\)

Raising money for Bletchley Park

Charity Registration No. 1012743

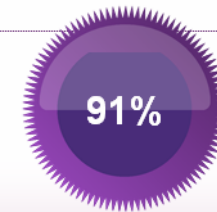

Bletchley Park was home to the WW2 Codebreakers whose breath-taking achievements helped shorten the war by two years saving countless lives. The Bletchley Park Trust's mission is to Read more

Get a page like this

Remind me to donate later

Target: £2,500.00
Raised so far: £2,285.00

Donate now

My story

Hi there!

Can you help us to raise awareness of Bletchley Park at Museums and the Web 2010? Bletchley Park would like to send Kelsey Griffin and me to give our paper at the #MW2010 conference in Denver next April.

You probably know the story of how I went up to Bletchley Park, loved it, heard that it might have to shut because they were short of cash, then started a campaign to make sure that could never happen? You don't? OK, please have a read of my blog first then. That'll give you all the exciting details of lunch with Stephen Fry and much, much more :)))

So, Bletchley Park. The place where the codebreakers worked during WW2, shortening the war by approx. 2 years thus saving possibly 22 million lives, and the place the first computer was invented. It is a very important place. It's the Geek Mecca!

Read more

1 | 2 | 3 | next

Government give £250k!

Bletchley Park gets £250,000 for repairs

The second world war codebreaking centre needs a further £6m for upgrade, say campaigners

Charles Arthur, technology editor, and agencies

Thursday 25 March 2010 16.45 GMT

Second world war codebreaking centre Bletchley Park has been given a £250,000 grant from the government to pay for urgent repairs to the centre, including resurfacing potholed roads and car parks and new roofs on the buildings where German Enigma codes were cracked in the war.

But Sue Black, a campaigner for the preservation of the site, said that another £6m needs to be raised to upgrade the centre. She and other campaigners are trying to encourage people to volunteer one day's earnings to the site on 16 September to meet a £1.5m funding gap.

#Work4Bletchley

As a software developer, I haven't done at all badly out of the whole "computing" thing.

Bletchley Park is where it all started and the work done there has made my career possible.

So I want to give a little back. Bletchley Park needs my help, and yours, too.

One day's pay is 0.5% of my annual income, and just 0.03% of all the money I've earned doing a job I love.

I'm pledging my pay for Thursday Sept 16th to Bletchley Park, and I hope you will join me and the other people who have pledged.

<http://www.pledgebank.com/work4bletchley>

The Current Situation

How you can help.....

- Please visit Bletchley Park (only £10 for an annual pass)
- Have a look around the Bletchley Park website: www.bletchleypark.org.uk
- Read all about the campaign: savingbletchleypark.org
- Donate money www.justgiving.com/sueblack
- Follow @bletchleypark and @Dr_Black on Twitter, search term #bpark
- Check out the Bletchley Park annual reunion site: www.bletchleyparkreunion.info
- Attend the Station X social media cafes, details can be found by following @StationX on Twitter
- Talk to everyone you know about Bletchley Park. Have they been there? Do they know how important it was/is? Ask friends, relations, colleagues, neighbours, children, neighbours children etc. and ask them to do the same

Women

Any Questions?

